As an American with a commitment to defense, intelligence, and homeland security, you understand how important leading-edge technology is to both your career and our nation's security. At Science Applications International Corporation (SAIC), you will share this sense of what's important with other talented professionals like you.

Take ownership of your future. As an employee-owner of SAIC, you'll receive a competitive salary and benefits package. And most important, you'll have the opportunity to achieve success within a unique environment – one that understands the needs of servicemen and servicewomen and their families as they separate from life in the military.

What kind of exciting opportunities wait for you at SAIC?
